WIDOWER SHOTS GIRL AND THEN SUICIDES

DOUBLE TRAGEDY REPORTED FROM FREDERICK, MD.

Canton Girl Slashes
Georgia Man In Cleveland, Ohio

Frederick, Md., April 5—The clandestine love affair of Leona Whittier, pretty twenty-two year old florist assistant and Clinton Shepherd, 42, widower and business man, ended today in the murder of the girl by her lover and his death by his own hand. Shepherd shot the girl six times last night on a lonely country road and was wounded himself when she pulled the revolver away from him and shot before he overpowered her. He then pitched her body out of his automobile, drove to the home of his brother in Frederick and shot himself to death with the same gun.

Miss Whittier was known at Adams town where she made her home as "the village pot." Friends declared today that she had frequently rejected Shepherd's attention and that her coolness toward him finally resulted in the attack which ended in her death.

Miss Whittier was known at Adams road by three small boys, who carried her to a hospital.

An examination of Shepherd's body indicated that the shot which the girl fired at him took effect. The bullet entered his chin and emerged through his nose.

Shepherd's wife and baby died on the same day in 1918 during the "flu" epidemic.

Cleveland, O., April 5—Pretty twenty-three year old Betty Moody, 403 Fifth avenue, Canton today faced Judge Virgil Terrell in police court on a charge of cutting to wound her erstwhile sweetheart, Styles G. Simmons, 1018 National Bank building, Atlanta, Ga., advertising man for the Procter and Gamble Soap Company, of Cincinnati.

The charge was changed at the direction of the court to assault and battery, and probation officers will report later whether the Canton girl will be permitted to go free with a suspended sentence.

Miss Moody early today had entered the apartment in which Simmons lived with two other men, and after an altercation, grabbed a safety razor blade and slashed his cheek. The wound is not serious. She was arrested as she was waiting for a street car.

According to the girl's story, in court, they met two years ago and had been sweethearts since. Simmons' love grew cold.

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY IS SUCCESSFULLY REPEATED FRIDAY

The Central High School junior class play performance, "Daddy Long Legs," was repeated before a large second night audience in the school auditorium Friday night with even more polish and smoothness than characterized the opening night's presentation.

The young actors and actresses, benefitting by their previous performance before the public, carried out their roles with more ease of manner and players whose portrayals were slightly rough the first night, sprang into prominence with clearer presentations of their roles on their second appearance.

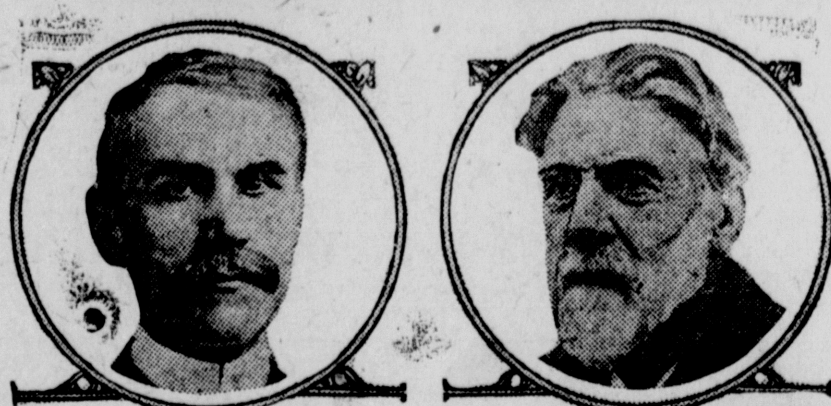

Miss Jean B. Elwell, who directed the young players and Miss Marion Lane, class faculty advisor, were each presented with gorgeous bouquets of Columbia roses, the class flower, by an usher between the third and fourth acts Friday night. The flowers were the gifts of the class.

DENOUNCES PLAN OF TAX REDUCTION

Washington, April 5—Right Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, dean of Catholic university here, and one of the foremost Catholic educators of the country, soundly denounced the Mellon scheme of tax reduction today in an address before the law observance of college and university students.

The outstanding need of the country today, Dr. Ryan said, was a "genuine patriotism of peace." "We need the patriotism," he declared, "that will impel us to love our country's institutions, its government and its people. We need the patriotism which will impel the citizens to love and promote the common welfare. Outstanding illustrations of this need are to be found in the attitude of many groups of citizens toward the prohibition laws, in the scandals of the oil leases, and in the enormous propaganda for the Mellon tax bill."

Both were arrested by Patrolman Charles Simms and brought to Police Headquarters Hurst being later removed to the hospital. Hurst is charged with cutting with intent to wound and Morgan is charged with shooting with intent to wound. Morgan was released under $500 bond pending appearance later.

Hurst's condition is serious, according to Dr. H. R. Hawkins, although he is expected to recover if complications do not follow. The bullet entered the right side and passed along a rib, coming out the back about two and one-half inches from the spine. Morgan was cut on the left forearm and hand and his coat was sliced into ribbons.

The fight is said to have resulted from Hurst accusing Morgan of paying attention to the former's divorced wife. According to Morgan, Hurst has frequently threatened him and has attempted to cause trouble before. Morgan said he was walking on East Church Street when he was accosted by Hurst from the rear.

LONG DELAYED MEASURE TAKEN UP IN HOUSE

Immigration Bill Will Not
Come to Vote For More Than Week.

Washington, April 5—The bitterly contested and long delayed restrictive immigration bill was taken up today in the house.

It will be more than a week before it can be brought to a final vote. A restrictive immigration bill is now also pending in the house. It differs in essential features from the house bill and if permanent immigration legislation is to be enacted at this session of congress, it will be written in conference between the two houses.

The house bill provides for 2 per cent of alien population of the United States as shown by the 1890 census. Immigrants shall come under certification by American consuls and the certificates must be presented upon arrival.

Congressmen from the large eastern cities where there are heavy foreign populations and from New England, are fighting the house bill. Its advocates claim for it a majority in the house of 75 to 100, its support coming from the south, middle and far west.

HURRICANE SWEEPS ADRIATIC SECTION

Venice, April 5—A hurricane swept the northern part of the Adriatic today, capsizing fishing boats and drowning several fishermen. Heavy damage was done at Lido and other coast resorts.

Reciting that she and Brewster were married at Stamford, Conn., December 29, 1916 and that they have one child, Virgil, who is in her custody. Mrs. Brewster says she and her husband were happy together until December, 1920. She further states that she aided him in his business enterprises which prospered and that Brewster is now a very wealthy man. "On or about October 1920," recites Mrs. Brewster, but which precise date or dates the plaintiff does not know, "the defendant (Miss Palmer) conceived and has at all times since entertained a designed of obtaining for herself the said Brewster financial support and of depriving the plaintiff and the said child thereof."

CHIEF GRAHAM WILL PLAY SOLOMON IN DECIDING OWNERSHIP

Chief of Police M. E. Graham was called upon Saturday to determine ownership of a ring.

S. J. Whitt, East Main Street jeweler said he sold the ring to a colored man named Montgomery a year ago for $12.50 on which Montgomery had paid $3 and agreed to pay 50 cents a week.

According to Whitt, Montgomery and the ring disappeared until "Rag Time" Smith, colored, walked into the jewelry store with it on Saturday morning. The jeweler asked to see the ring and then took possession of it and called Chief Graham.

Smith said he borrowed the ring from Montgomery and Montgomery said the jeweler had put the collection in the hands of a Cincinnati agency and that he had been sending his installments on the ring to that firm.

Chief Graham told all parties to report in Police Court Monday morning and argue out possession of the ring. In the meantime the Chief has taken possession of the bauble.

TENDENCY TOWARD AVOIDING "ROUGH PLACES" DEPLORED

Columbus, April 5—The tendency to avoid the "rough places" in education was deplored by the late Dr. T. C. Mendenhall, president of the Ohio State University board of trustees, in a paper on "Inflation in education" read at the fourth annual educational conference, in session here today by General Edward Orton, Columbus, son of the University's first president.

In the paper, completed the day prior to his death, which occurred March 22, last, Dr. Mendenhall warned against inflation of intercollegiate athletics, exaggerated elective systems and indifferent, or incapable, students.

He said normal schools tended to put too much stress on "method" and not enough on subject matter taught.

Selection of thirteen high schools for the "Ohio merit award" because of excellence of physical education programs, announced at the conference, included:

Cincinnati East, Roosevelt, (Dayton) McKinley, (Canton); Cleveland Public schools, Bucyrus and Mingo Junction.

Total registrations is expected to reach 3200 or 2900 more than last year. Registration last night reached the 3,000 mark.

DAUGHERTY EXCITED DECLARES PEPPER

Philadelphia, April 5—"Mr. Daugherty, poor fellow, is so excited and up in the air, that I don't believe he knows what he is talking about."

This is the manner in which Senator George Wharton Pepper today replied to former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty's statement last night, in which he assailed Senator Pepper's "keynote speech" at the Republican state convention in Portland, Maine.

At first inclined to wholly ignore the accusations of the former cabinet member that in his Portland speech he attempted to lay Republican party failures to the late President Harding, Senator Pepper gave way when he was besieged for a reply.

The Portland speech was delivered after most careful thought and deliberation," the senator declared, "and I stand to everything I said. I do not feel that any development since then or any comment made in Washington, warrants a further statement. I do not desire to start a controversy with Mr. Daugherty."

Senator Pepper added he has seen no indication of any prominent Republicans withdrawing their support of Calvin Coolidge for the next presidential nomination.

RIEGL ACCUSED OF "PLAYING POLITICS"

Columbus, Apr 5—V. M. Riegel of the state department of education, was accused of "playing politics by sponsoring inaccurate propaganda" at a meeting here yesterday before the city superintendents' section of the Ohio educational conference.

The inference was broadly drawn: that the director of education has been guilty of endeavoring to curry favor from Governor Donahay by attempting to establish a reputation as an advocate of economy without the weight of true facts to support his position.

W. A. Walls, superintendent of schools at Kent, appeared in the role of accuser. His attack on Riegel developed as an answer to a report to Governor Donahay from the state department of education, bearing upon the financial situation of Alliance schools. Many of the recommendations for economy embodied in this report were characterized by Mr. Walls as "pure bunk."

TWO WARNINGS REACH PRESIDENT COOLIDGE; LEADERS DISTURBED

G. O. P. Chiefs Also Worried Over Warning Served
Friday Night By Daughtert In Attack On Senator Pepper.

Washington, April 5—Two warnings and rally Republican hosts by the that sentiment for a third party is sweeping the upper reaches of the Northwest and may result in Republican defeat next November, or the throwing of the presidential election into the House of Representatives, have been served on President Coolidge and his chief political advisers in Washington, within the last forty-eight hours.

It might be too much to say that Republican leaders are worried, but the reports have profoundly disturbed them.

The third party bugaboo was not brought to Washington by spokesmen for any insurgent group, but by two of the regular Republican leaders of the Northwest, Ralph E. Williams, of Oregon, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee and Governor J. O. Preus of Minnesota. They jointly informed Republican leaders here that third party menace is "no joke" and that if the Republican campaign directors continue to ignore it or treat it lightly it will be to the party's sorrow.

Preus said Senator La Follette could carry Minnesota, Wisconsin, and two Dakotas, Montana, Colorado and possibly Iowa, against any candidate either of the old parties is likely to put up.

Williams said, in effect, that Oregon was in a none too secure position for the Republicans, and that Washington was in the same category.

In a series of conferences at the White House and with Republican leaders at the capital, they united in urging that due cognizance be taken of the situation before it is too late.

Meanwhile, on top of these pessimistic reports brought by such regular Republican leaders here had a new worry today in the emphatic warning served last night by Harry M. Daugherty, despoised attorney general, that he does not propose to stand by and see the friends of President Coolidge cry "blame it on Harding" in the investigation disclosures.

The former attorney general's attack on Senator Pepper, Republican of Pennsylvania, who has recently been one of Coolidge's most constant advisers on political matters, was one of the most savage Washington has ever seen. Daugherty accused Pepper of being "sore" because he was turned down for solicitor general of the department of justice, which next to attorney generalship itself, is the most important law office in the government. He also accused Pepper of party disloyalty.

Daugherty said he expected to support Coolidge "notwithstanding the fact that combination of Pepper's, Vanderbilt's, Gaston B. Means' and Wheeler's may unite to condemn innocent men without a hearing and notwithstanding one of their number is selected to make a keynote speech at the annual dinner to be held by the Purchase, Storage and Traffic division of the general staff in New York Monday night, the invitations to which read "BYOB," meaning "bring your own booze."

Secretary Weeks has already declined his invitation and it is believed that General Pershing will do likewise.

Outstanding from the service of all army officers who "violate the eighteenth amendment," was advocated today by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti Saloon League, as a result of the "BYOB" invitation.

"It is bad enough," said Wheeler, in a statement today, "for ignorant aliens to violate our laws, but for army officers to invite such violations by suggesting 'bring your own booze,' is inexcusable. No one can bring booze to a banquet without violating the law and should be arrested."

Secretary Weeks has already declined his invitation and it is believed that General Pershing will do likewise.

The dry eluents said however, that they had "warrants for five millionaires" to be served later.

MODISH MITZI—Harry Seeks A Cure For A Broken Heart

"But I will always be a sister to you," reads Handsome Harry. He has several sisters now and doesn't know what to do with them. MITZI might have ended it less finally! From the glimpse of Harry in his handsome broadcloth bathrobe, you cannot fathom how broken-hearted he is. But he is—oh yes, indeed, he is.

He decides he must do something or go somewhere—to forget. He has had his trunk brought up. It will take his mind off MITZI. Deciding what to take is such an engrossing subject. Harry is hiding his broken heart beneath a silver gray cloth coat.

He will take this golf suit, of course. The knickers are of Harris tweed in a distinct plaid pattern. He wears a pair of golf stockings with a large (and loud) diamond design in them. All in harmony of course.

He hopes that MITZI sees him. That she will see all his luggage piled on the car. That she will wonder where he is going. That she will miss him when he is gone. That she will change her mind. Who was it, he wonders, who said: "Go south, young man, go south."

MAIN HIGHWAYS SHOULD BE BUILT DIFFERENTLY, CLAIM

Congressman Charles Brand, of Ohio, member of the house committee roads, and for some years a student of highway problems, has introduced an amendment to the federal road laws, requiring the states to meet federal aid with state funds instead of securing such funds from the counties through which the road runs.

In an interview Mr. Brand explains the effect of the amendment in Ohio: "The main federal aid roads are for the benefit of the general public and should be paid for out of general funds. The present plan in Ohio results in placing two thirds the cost of such roads upon rural people, although they furnish only one third of the traffic. For illustration, if the people of Columbus and Cincinnati want to connect their respective counties through Madison, Clarke, Greene, and Warren Counties, the rural people will pay about three-fourths the cost of the road in these counties, and the urban population about one-fourth, and no opportunity whatever is offered to the people of Columbus or Cincinnati to pay any share of the cost of that road, although the records show that two-thirds of the traffic in Ohio originates in the cities. The city people want the roads built and were absolutely unconscious of the unfairness in the distribution of the cost until the situation was revealed by the discussion of this measure. The rural because of the unbearable tax burden, population has opposed road building.

"My mail indicates overwhelming approval of the amendment by both city and country people. The city people see that they will be relieved of county road assessments on federal aid roads, and now see clearly the cause of rural dissatisfaction. "Opposition comes only from road promoters or from those financially interested in road building. It is claimed by these interests that this is a matter for the consideration first of the Ohio Legislature. As the amendment does not apply until 1926 the session of the legislature in 1925 will have ample opportunity to make provision before the amendment applies.

"The real objection has not yet been stated. Under the present plan a road promoter or highway official can go to the county authorities, offering federal or state aid of a hundred thousand dollars more or less, provided the county puts up an equal amount, and can also suggest to the county authorities that this sum of money will be offered to some other county if this particular county is unwilling to meet the amount with county funds.

"This seductive persuasive argument is responsible for roads that never should have been built, and is one of the reasons for taxes in Ohio having been multiplied five times during the last few years, and is also largely responsible for an annual increase of indebtedness of the counties of the state amounting to an average of 90 millions a year, or 270 millions increase in the last three years, according to the state auditor's report.

"This measure tends to interfere with the easy flow of immense sums to road builders, resulting from bonding counties for long years ahead, and puts main road building upon a cash basis with all the users of the roads contributing in a fair way.

"I have the written endorsement of the Federal Bureau of Roads of this measure, as a means of correcting the most obvious difficulties in road building. A majority of the states have already voluntarily adopted this program."

Timely Tips and Suggestions on the Latest Diagrams and Hookups—Simplified—

HOW TO CONSTRUCT LOOP AND OUTDOOR AERIALS

Convenient Arrangement Permits Easy Change of Aerials
By CARLTON E. BUTLER, Radio Engineer.

You may have difficulty in erecting an outdoor antenna. While it is possible to erect an aerial on nearly every type of house, yet surrounding trees, a slippery tile or peaked roof and other obstacles may make it a difficult matter.

In crowded districts it is often impossible to erect an antenna without crossing or running parallel to a number of nearby aerials. Or you may be located in an apartment where the landlord, for aesthetic reasons will not permit the erection of antennas on the roof of your building.

These facts may have deterred you from building or buying a radio receiving set up to the present time. If you already possess a set and are bothered with considerable difficulty in tuning out interference from a nearby station, the solution is to build a loop aerial.

New Circuits Require Loop
A great many of the new types of receiving sets such as the reflex and various radio frequency receivers really should be used with a loop aerial to secure best results. A loop is especially desirable with any type of receiving set to reduce static and gain selectivity of tuning.

The loop aerial has certain disadvantages. The amount of energy that can be picked up on a loop aerial is very small as compared to that received on even an indoor aerial. The volume of distant stations will be much less.

If you have an outside aerial at the present time a loop will be a valuable addition for summer use and for trying out some of the newer circuits. The picture diagram shows a novel means of incorporating a loop aerial to your present receiver, yet allowing for a very quick change to the outside or indoor aerial.

Double Circuit Jack Used

The construction of the loop antenna is novel in that an ordinary telephone plug is fashioned on the bottom end of the upright arm of the loop. A double circuit jack is then fitted in the lid of the cabinet of your radio receiver, or better still, fastened to the rear or side of the cabinet with a hole bored thru the lid for the plug to go through.

To use the loop simply insert the Mrs. Thurman Middleton, who underwent an operation at the Espey Hospital, three weeks ago, was removed to her home near Xenia, Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Carle, of the Wilmington Pike, are the parents of a son, born, at the Espey Hospital, Thursday night.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT ON FALSE ALARM

City firemen would like to spend about five minutes with the night owl who sent in an alarm from Box 32, Second and Columbus Streets, at 12:15 o'clock Saturday morning.

CIRCUS NOISES TO BE BROADCAST ON THURSDAY EVENING

Half the youngsters—and a goodly percentage of the grown-ups—between Maine and California will miss their supper on Thursday April 10, for between 6:15 and 6:45 o'clock the roars and rumblings of the menagerie animals of Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's Combined Circus—"The Greatest Show on Earth"—will be broadcast simultaneously by station WJZ of the Radio Corporation of America in New York City and station WGY of the General Electric Company in Schenectady. This is the first time that wild animals in any numbers have been permitted to "speak" into a radio microphone, and the event is creating great interest among both radio engineers and animal trainers.

As much as is possible of the circus atmosphere will be carried to the listeners-in, and this end arrangements are being made for Lew Graham, the nationally famous announcer of the circus, to make an introductory talk in true circus style, after which he will introduce the lions and lion-cubs, the chattering monkeys, the leopard family, the sea-lions, the most talkative of the tigers, and the quartet of singing elephants.

Interest to Motorists

LOWLY LIZZIES AND LIMOUSINES, SISTERS UNDER THE HOOD

Louisville, Ky., April 5—Lowly Lizzies and haughty limousines will be sisters under the hood as they speed over the nation's highways carrying thousands of happy Kentuckians back to their native state where an old-fashioned home coming celebration will be held from June 16 to June 29, inclusive.

From reports already received from all sections of the United States, home coming officials here are counting on motor cars to bring at least 50 per cent of the 100,000 visitors who have announced their intentions of attending Kentucky's mammoth "home party."

The Louisville Automobile Club, one of the largest organizations of its kind in the South, and other motor organizations of the state are co-operating with the Kentucky Home Coming Association in arranging for the comfort and convenience of the visiting motorists during the period of the celebration.

Open house will be maintained by the Louisville club during the week of June 16 and visiting automobilists will be permitted to make use of the club's facilities without cost. Committees of club members have been named to establish tourist's camps and to arrange for the servicing of visitors' cars. In addition special parking areas will be laid out in the business section of Louisville and in order to prevent traffic congestion as much as possible home folks will be urged to use their machines as little as possible during the week of the celebration here.

Highway commissions in all states through which national routes pass will be asked to postpone repair work during the week preceding June 16 in order to save home comers from losing time in making detours.

With home coming caravans being organized in Maryland, New York, Washington, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, Oklahoma, Virginia, West Virginia, Iowa, Alabama, Georgia and Michigan home coming officials say they would not be surprised to see every state in the union represented by an automobile party at the celebration.

SAYS TIRE PRODUCT SAVES THE AUTO

The Springfield Victor low air pressure tire seems to be the tire that has filled a long felt want. It not only gives easier riding qualities, but has a tendency to take better care of your car by eliminating the hard jolts which usually happen with a heavily inflated tire.

"In all my years in the tire business," says Mr. Kohl I do not believe I have ever seen a tire that will stand up better under severe wear than the new Springfield-Victor tire.

SAYS MANUFACTURERS OF BUICK REALIZE DUTY TO BUYERS

"Buick fully realizes its responsibility to the general motoring public of giving to them the greatest possible motor car value at the lowest possible price, and of backing up that motor car with country-wide service that is up to the same standards as the car itself. Its whole energies are constantly devoted to that object. It is constantly seeking to develop every part of the Buick car so that it will be more efficient and more durable—in short, so that it will be of greater value to the owner," says J. B. Bice of the Xenia garage.

Buick is proud of the place that it has held for so long as a leader in the automobile industry and it intends to retain that place, he says, and continues:

"Buick is resolved to carry out its responsibility to those more than a million purchasers of Buick cars who, by their purchase have placed their confidence in the Buick Motor Company. These Buick owners undoubtedly feel that Buick will continue to give them dollar for dollar value in motor car transportation and they also undoubtedly feel that no truer words were ever spoken than these: 'When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them!'"

LECTURER TO CLOSE LYCEUM COURSE TUESDAY EVENING

Dr. Robert Parker Miles, dramatic lecturer, with an almost world-wide reputation, will appear at Central High School auditorium next Tuesday evening in the final number of the lyceum course staged there during the winter months.

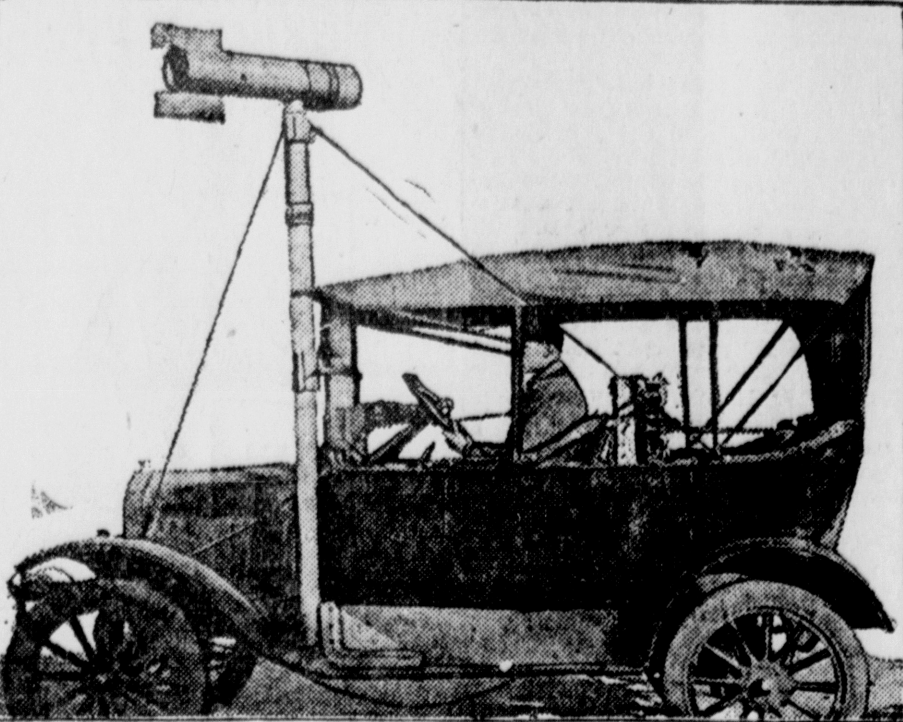

Miles was substituted for Charles Paddock, American track athlete, who is preparing to represent the United States in the Olympic games in France, and was forced to cancel his Xenia engagement. Proceeds from the lecture course will be used to purchase stage equipment and scenery for the school auditorium stage.

Dr. Miles was persuaded by Arthur Brisbane, noted editor, to give up the pastorate of the Ravenswood Presbyterian Church twenty years ago and become religious editor for the New York Journal. In that capacity he during which he succeeded in blocking the sale of cigarettes to minors, solved the famous Guldensuppe murder case, and cleaned up vice sections.

He was sent on tours around the world and on these trips gained admittance to and had long talks with Gladstone, Balfour, Bismarck, Pope Leo XIII, President Carnot, King Edward, Kaiser Wilhelm and others, most of whom are now dead. From these experiences came "Tallow Lips" and "Sparks," two classics of the American lecture platform, which have been given more than 6,000 times in every state in the Union, in every province of Canada and in every English speaking country of the world.

BRUCE'S CHARIOT WRITES HISTORY

Bruce's chariot writes its own history with 18 steel pens as it races along the country roads. The apparatus has just been completed by C. S. Bruce of the bureau of standards and automatically registers everything that happens to the car on a run, including speed, wind velocity, rate at which the car rathers speed and slow downs. It also has a camera underneath which snaps pictures automatically of the flow of gas. Photograph shows Bruce in his chariot.

GIVES SUGGESTIONS ON MEANS TO PREVENT AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS; SPEED RELATIVE

Washington, D. C., March 29.—Automobile accidents throughout the country may be greatly minimized in short order as a result of a statement issued here by President Thomas P. Henry of the American Automobile Association.

Mr. Henry says that while carelessness is admitted by safety councils and civic organizations to be the basic cause of most automobile accidents and fatalities it is to vague a term or to chavergant person. Accordingly he outlined a set of suggestions which, he hoped, will give the motorist as well as the pedestrian some workable leads.

To the motorist the A. A. A. official says: Speed is relative. Just because you are not exceeding twenty miles an hour under certain conditions is no evidence that you are driving carefully. You might be speeding at ten.

"It may be unlawful to stop suddenly or change your direction of travel without signaling to the driver behind at no law gives you the right to jeopardize yourself as well as the man behind you by signalling your intentions and then, in acting, disregarding its possible inability to stop.

"What is carelessness? Well, for one thing, it is starting on the trip without being sure that the brakes are in proper condition.

"When you are transporting passengers across railroad tracks knowing that your battery is too weak to crank the engine should it stall, that is carelessness.

"One positive way to prevent accidents is to refuse to carry on a conversation while driving the car. You can be civil, and there is no reason why you should not talk while driving but you cannot discuss the fourth dimension and expect to succeed in driving your car so as to direct it safely in accordance with the other three.

"Carelessness lies in assuming that you can get by the other fellow on his right before he turns over closer to the curb.

"Carelessness has a lot to do with assuming that everyone has alighted from the street car. Careful drivers don't assume anything. They make sure.

"Carelessness would cease being a vague term if it were more frequently associated with the practice of assuming that pedestrians will get out of the way when the horn is sounded. Many of them are deaf. Some are day-dreaming. Others are stubborn. The pedestrian has the right of way at crossings, but you would be better off driving as though he has such a right even if he didn't have it.

"When a traffic officer says 'Go,' be sure that it's a local stop. Officers are only human. He may not see an impending hazard.

"Keep your eyes on the road. It takes only a second of neglect to produce an accident."

Carrying the A. A. A. message to pedestrians in the same concrete way Mr. Henry adds:

"You may have the right of way but remember that you are not bumper equipped.

"Carelessness afoot has much to do with not thoroughly understanding this hazard of walking, the automobile. Pedestrians who keep out of trouble are aware of the limitations of the automobile as well as the automobile driver. They know that it's harder to stop a car on a wet street than a dry one, and they conduct themselves accordingly at the crossings.

"A pedestrian is careless whenever he or she looks to the right when starting to cross the street and to the left when half-way across. Traffic doesn't run that way. Look to the left when starting and then to the right when crossing the second half of the street. Wise pedestrians look both ways. It doesn't take any more time, and it saves lifelong regret.

"Don't cross between standing or parked cars unless you are sure that drivers are aware of your presence.

"Stand on the sidewalk until there is an opportunity to cross. Let the curb be your protection against the motorist who cuts sharply around the corner.

"Don't try to hurry across the street. Any flivver can beat you."

Mr. Henry concludes by saying that no attempt has been made to resolve these suggestions into ten rules or a dozen or twenty. "For the mere sake of completeness the American Automobile Association cannot subscribe to any such simplifying of so complex a problem. There is a new brand of carelessness offered every day, and a new rule to cover it. All the motorist or the pedestrian needs to know is that carelessness is composed of specific acts of folly. Knowledge of a few of these should easily suggest to him the rest."

Greene Countians Who Have Achieved Distinction

(Editor's Note—This is number 40 of a series of articles concerning Greene County citizens and former citizens who have attained nationwide prominence in their chosen fields of endeavor. It is interesting to note that Greene County has furnished more than its share of people who have attained renown.)

DR. G. STANLEY HALL

In the person of Dr. Granville Stanley Hall, educator, Antioch College, Yellow Springs, has served to give to Greene County the claim to another prominent citizen.

Dr. Hall, president of Clark University, was a member of the faculty of Antioch College several years some time ago. He was born in Ashfield, Mass., February 1, 1846 and at Williams College received his A. B., in 1867 and his A. M. in 1870. He studied at Union Theological Seminary 1867, 1868 and 1870-1871, at Berlin and Bonn, 1869-1870 and at Berlin and Heidelberg, 1871-1872. He received his Ph.D., at Harvard in 1878, his L.L.D., at Michigan in 1883, at Williams in 1889 and at Johns Hopkins in 1902.

Dr. Hall was professor of psychology at Antioch College from 1872 to 1876. He was instructor of English at Harvard the year following, was a lecturer on psychology at Harvard and at Williams, was professor of psychology at Johns Hopkins seven years, and has been president and professor of psychology at Clark since 1888.

He was founder and editor of the American Journal of Psychology, editor of the Pedagogical Seminary, of the American Journal of Religious Psychology and Education and of the Journal of Race Development. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, of the American Psychological Association and the American Philosophical Society.

Dr. Hall was author of "Aspects of German Culture," 1881; "Hints Toward a Select and Descriptive Bibliography of Education" (with John M. Mansfield), 1886; "Adolescence," 1904; "Youth—Its Education, Regimen and Hygiene," 1907; "Educational Problems," 1911; "Founders of Modern Psychology," 1912; "Jesus the Christ, in the Light of Psychology," 1917.

McClelland Neighborhood

The Glad Community Club held its monthly social at the Hall, Thursday evening. It was a capacity house and an interesting program was presented. Several musical numbers were given by Miss Grace Lyle, Miss Ledbetter and Mr. Hutchison. Mr. Middleton, of Xenia, rendered two vocal solos that were well received. Rev. Furstenberger of Friend's Church gave a very interesting talk on the advantages of rural life, commending the country as the ideal environment in which to grow children. Refreshments of fruits salad, wafers and coffee were served by the club. The community idea meets a long felt need, the fostering of neighborliness, good fellowship and interest in the welfare of our neighbors stands next to the church in its opportunity to help make life worth while. Let the good work go on.

T. J. Sanders has been confined to the house for the past three weeks suffering from a severe attack of grip.

FEATURE OF FLINT IS EASY DRIVING LOCAL AGENTS SAY

The Dickman and Johnston Company, agents for the Durant, Star and Flint claims the latter is one of the best six cylinder cars on the market. The new Flint is low, has broad fenders with generous curves in front and deep in the rear, large radiator and hood. This model is finished in attractive colors, neatly striped wheels, black fenders, nickel plated lamps, radiator and windshield supporters.

The car comes in all the different models and is claimed to be the easiest driving car on the market. One of the most important features is the chassis which is patterned after the Durant tubular Backbone, a hollow steel cylinder which is hot riveted, through flanges at each end, to the second and third cross members and forces them to remain in parallel position and keeps the frame in a rigid alignment at all times.

The clutch which is of the single plate, dry type, enclosed in the flywheel where it is free from oil, dirt and grit, and the transmission is mounted independently. These dealers invite you to visit them.

From the way Overland and Willies Knight cars are selling it will not be long until almost every time you look around you will see one," says Bernard Sutton of the Greene County Hardware Company, dealers in Overland and Studebaker cars.

Today the automobile is the "family car" and that application covers a multitude of phases in the everyday life of the average American family. While no one wants to ride in a car with the upholstery removed, there are times when the seat and back cushion of the tonneau can be taken out and the car used as a general carrier of household goods, without any damage being done to the upholstery.

When moving day comes and the family is migrating from its city home to the country house or changing from one part of the city to another part, the tonneau of their

Overland with upholstery removed can be readily utilized to convey many household articles. For the Overland owner who is perhaps using his car as much for business as he is for pleasure the same idea applies. The commercial traveler especially finds the removable upholstery a distinct asset. He can carry large sample cases, trunks or grips and save the upholstery for pleasure trips only.

HERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT BATTERIES FOR OWNER OF CAR

"During our last cold snap," says A. G. Zeller, President of the Michigan State Automobile School, Detroit, "A careless driver steered his car into mine. Apparently there was no damage done but the next morning I could not start my engine."

"Investigation showed that one of the battery jars in the storage battery was cracked and a good share of the liquid had leaked out. The engine was a little to large to crank by hand so I cast around for some means to get it going."

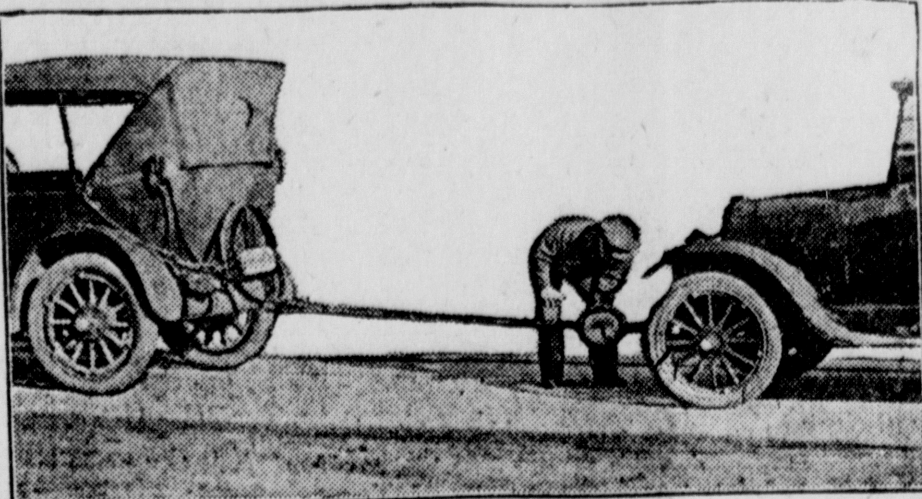

"Over near the door I spied another battery that a neighbor had asked me to bring in to be recharged as it was in a partly run down condition. Investigation showed that this battery was not entirely lifeless so I set it on the running board, made connections between it and the battery in the car, got in and stepped on the starter button and had the engine running in no time."

"In making such an emergency hook up it is necessary to connect like poles of the batteries, putting positive to positive and negative to negative. The electricians term this putting them in parallel. If an examination of the battery is made, the positive terminal will be found to be marked with a + (or P) sign and the negative with a - (or N) sign."

"If you remove the battery from your car be certain to mark the end which is grounded so you will put it back the way it belongs."

"If the positive and negative ter-

UNCLE SAM NOW TESTING TIRES

Meet the "destruction gang" of the United States bureau of standards, who wear out more tires with the two automobiles than the average man uses in a life time. It is not a needless waste, however, for it is done with the view to determine what types of tires and treads give the best results, particularly in stopping. The tests are made by locking the wheels of a car and dragging it with a chain and enormous spring balance. The comparisons show that the better a tire sticks to the street, the quicker a car so equipped will stop when the brakes are applied and by noting the amount of power needed to drag the car after the wheels are locked, it can easily be determined which tire offers the most resistance.

minals are not appropriately marked set the batteries side by side, run a wire from either terminal of the second battery to the ground terminal of the other.

"If you can complete a circuit between the other two terminals your connection is wrong and should be reversed. Be sure that you can not complete a circuit from one battery through the other. Be equally certain that you can complete a circuit between the combined grounded ends of the two batteries and the ungrounded ends."

OIL IMPORTANT IN AUTO OPERATION

"A few years ago people gave oil but little consideration, but now oil gets as much consideration as any part of the automobile equipment," says J. A. Ashworth who handles Pennsylvania products in Xenia.

After several years' study of the oil business he says he finds the Pennsylvania products contain more real lubrication qualities than any oil he has come in contact with, which gives the tractor or automobile a chance to perform its duties with a smoothness that is readily noticed.

"Laboratory tests have proven," he says that lubrication qualities stand up longer and firmer in the Pennsylvania oils, and even though you do not change oil often, or allow your oil to run below the usual line it will not burn out as readily as most oils. Mr. Ashworth is located on Jasper Ave.

UNIVERSITY NOT TAKING ISSUE

Columbia University authorities, New York City, are standing "pat" on their position in regard to colored students occupying Fernald Hall graduates' dormitory or other dormitories on the campus.

Discussion arose when certain students threatened to quit the dormitory because Frederick W. Wells, a colored law student, was permitted to live there. Wells took his preparatory work at Wilberforce University, his qualification records at Columbia show.

Dean Hawkes, chairman of the committee on residence halls at Columbia, said: "If a student finds his surroundings uncongenial, there is no need for him to stay at Fernald Hall or anywhere else in the university."

In support of Dean Hawkes' assertion that "there always have been negroes at Columbia as well as students of other races and no discrimination is countenanced," university authorities disclosed that there are six colored students in the college and an equal number of graduate students in the university.

ENLISTMENTS NOW BEING RECEIVED IN TRAINING CAMP

The campaign for enlistments for the Citizens Military Training Camp at Camp Knox, Ky., opened April 1, and will continue until July 1, according to Harry D. Smith, attorney, Citizens National Bank Building, who has been general county chairman since the camps were started.

Candidates who are received will be sent to Camp Knox for a month's military training with all expenses paid, including transportation, and with free inoculation against typhoid and small pox. Last year this county sent fifteen young men to Camp Knox, according to Mr. Smith, and every candidate who made application was admitted.

Physical examination is furnished the candidates free of charge by Dr. H. C. Messenger and any young man of sixteen or seventeen years of age, of average mental capacity, can pass the mental test, it is said. Applicants must not be less than 16 nor more than twenty-four years of age and it is hoped that applicants will apply as early as possible.

Candidates from Greene County have been in the camp each year, and it is the hope of Mr. Smith that this year's contribution will be doubled. Besides the military training the youths get, there is supervised play, sports and recreation of different kinds that turns the affair into an outing that has proven interesting to every candidate who has gone from here.

Mr. Smith has named the school superintendents over the county as local chairmen in each of their districts to receive and forward applications and advise youths concerning the camp. The district chairmen are: Superintendent D. S. Lynn, Bath Consolidated, Fairfield; Superintendent E. O. Barr, Yellow Springs; Superintendent L. D. Parker, Cedarville; Superintendent A. F. Rousch, Ross Township Centralized, Jamestown; Superintendent J. W. Gowdy, Jamestown; Superintendent W. A. Driscoll, Bowersville; Superintendent D. H. Barnes, 151 High Street, Xenia; Principal Carl Wright, Bellbrook; Earl Collins, Beaver Creek High School, Xenia, R. R. 7; Principal H. L. Sams, Caesar Creek High School, Xenia, R. R. 6; H. C. Aultman, Court House, Xenia, county superintendent of schools; C. A. Waltz, city superintendent, Central High School Building, Xenia.

The Rev. Francis E. Ratterman, newly appointed pastor of St. Bridgid's Church, will probably serve as the sub-chairman for the parochial school.

MEN ARE SOUGHT FOR ARMY SERVICE

An Army recruiting "flying squad" from Ft. Hayes, Columbus, was here Friday and Saturday leaving Saturday for Washington, D. C.

The squad is advance organization for a recruiting outfit from Cincinnati that will arrive here probably Sunday night and remain for about two days. Men are being accepted for all branches of service now.

Recruits during peace time only have to soldier about three months each year, during which time they get their rifle-range experience, and they are taught any trade they prefer during their army stay. Trems of enlistment are for three years with the exception of the Tenth Infantry, for which men are being accepted for one year terms.

The "flying squad" here Saturday has been in West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio in the last few months.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Evil Shepherd

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Francis' attention had wandered. He was gazing fixedly at the man whom Sir Timothy had pointed out. "You still do not fully recognize our friend," the latter observed carelessly. "He calls himself Manuel Lito, and he professes to be a Cuban. His real name I understood, when you introduced us, to be Shopland."

"Great heavens, so it is!" Francis exclaimed. "Let us leave him to his precarious pleasures," Sir Timothy suggested. "I am free for a few moments. We will wander round together."

They found Lady Cynthia and Wilmore, and looked in at the super-room, where people were waiting now for tables, a babel of sound and gaiety. The grounds and winter-gardens were crowded. Their guide led the way to a large apartment on the other side of the hall, from which the sound of music was proceeding.

"My theater," he said. "I wonder what is going on."

They passed inside. There was a small stage with steps leading down to the floor, easy-chairs and round tables everywhere, and waiters serving refreshments. A girl was dancing. Sir Timothy watched her approvingly. "Nadia Ellistoff," he told them. "She was in the last Russian ballet, and she is waiting now for the rest of the company to start again at Covent Garden. You see, it is Metzger who plays there. They improvise. Rather a wonderful performance, I think."

They watched her breathlessly, a spirit in gray tulle, with great black eyes now and then half closed.

"It is 'Wind Before Dawn,'" Lady Cynthia whispered. "I heard him play it two days after he composed it, only there are variations now. She is the soul of the south wind."

The curtain went down amidst rapturous applause. The dancer had left the stage, floating away into some sort of wonderfully-contrived nebulous background. Within a few moments, the principal comedian of the day was telling stories. Sir Timothy led them away.

"But how on earth do you get all these people?" Lady Cynthia asked.

"It is arranged for me," Sir Timothy replied. "I have an agent who sees to it all. Every man or woman who is asked to perform, has a credit at Carter's for a hundred guineas. I pay no fees. They select some little keepsake."

Margaret laughed softly.

"No wonder they call this place a sort of Arabian Nights!" she declared.

"Well, there isn't much else for you to see," Sir Timothy said thoughtfully.

"My gymnasium, which is one of the principal features here, is closed just now for a special performance, of which I will speak in a moment. The concert hall I see they are using for an overflow dance-room. What you have seen, with the grounds and the winter-garden, comprises almost everything."

They moved back through the hall with difficulty. People were now crowding in. Lady Cynthia laughed softly.

"Why, it is like a gala night at the opera, Sir Timothy!" she exclaimed. "How dare you pretend that this is Bohemia!"

"It has never been I who have described my entertainments," he reminded her. "They have been called everything—orgies, debauches—everything you can think of. I have never ventured myself to describe them."

Their passage was difficult. Every now and then Sir Timothy was compelled to shake hands with some of his newly-arriving guests. At last, however, they reached the little sitting-room. Sir Timothy turned back to Wilmore, who hesitated.

"You had better come in, too, Mr. Wilmore, if you will," he invited. "You were with Ledsam, the first day we met, and something which I have to say now may interest you."

"If I am not intruding," Wilmore murmured. They entered the room, still jealously guarded. Sir Timothy closed the door behind them.

The apartment was one belonging to the older portion of the house, and had been, in fact, an annex to the great library. The walls were oak-paneled, and hung with a collection of old prints. There were some easy-chairs, a writing-table, and some well-laden bookcases. There were one or two bronze statues of gladiators, a wonderful study of two wrestlers, no minor ornaments. Sir Timothy plunged at once into what he had to say.

"I promised you, Lady Cynthia, and you, Ledsam," he said, "to divulge exactly the truth as regards these much-talked-of entertainments here. You, Margaret, under present circumstances, are equally interested. You, Wilmore, are Ledsam's friend, and you happen to have an interest in this particular party. Therefore, I am glad to have you all here together. The superficial part of my entertainment you have seen. The part which renders it necessary for me to keep closed doors, I shall now explain. I give prizes here of considerable value for boxing tests which are conducted under rules of our own. One is due, to take place in a very few minutes. The contests vary in character, but I may say that the chief officials of the National Sporting Club are usually to be found here, only, of course, in an unofficial capacity. The difference between the contests arranged by me, and others, is that my men are here to fight. They use sometimes an illegal weight of glove and they sometimes hurt one another. If any two of the boxing fraternity have a grudge against one another, and that often happens, they are permitted here to fight it out, under the strictest control as regards fairness, but practically without gloves at all. You heard of the accident, for instance, to Norris? That happened in my gymnasium. He was knocked out by Burgin. It was a wonderful fight."

GIVEN INSTRUCTION
Greene County Clothing Club leaders were given instruction in the principles of directing their clubs this summer, by Miss Edna Callahan, of the home economics department of the Ohio State University, at the farm bureau office, Wednesday.

A similar meeting was held for Food Club leaders, Thursday, and instructions given by Miss Lella C. Ogile. Poultry demonstrators met at the farm bureau office Friday afternoon, for instructions.

They moved back through the hall with difficulty. People were now crowding in. Lady Cynthia laughed softly.

"Why, it is like a gala night at the opera, Sir Timothy!" she exclaimed. "How dare you pretend that this is Bohemia!"

"It has never been I who have described my entertainments," he reminded her. "They have been called everything—orgies, debauches—everything you can think of. I have never ventured myself to describe them."

LEGION POSTS TO PRESENT COMEDY

The consolidated American Legion Posts of Fairfield and Osborn, and vicinity, at Osborn, will present a comedy-drama, "The Old Oaken Bucket" at the Knights of Pythias Hall, at Osborn, Friday evening, May 9, at 8 o'clock. The organization is seeking the patronage of the public for the offering.

The K. of P. Hall is well equipped for the presentation, with its up-to-date stage and auditorium, and the legion cast is well trained to give the performance for the delectation of children and grown-ups. The play has been presented in other towns and has always brought a large house.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.
